the subsequent terror of mob rule is almost understandable. This is the best | balanced film of the Revolution I have ever seen.

Charles Dickens' masterpiece, which has been performed more than any of his other books, is brought to the screen vividly by a group of fine artists head-ed by Dirk Bogardo as the dissolute English lawyer who pretended to care for no man.

The role of Sydney Carton which was played by Sir Martin Harvey on the English stage for 36 years, has been coveted by many distinguished actors. In this fine production by Betty Box and Ralph Thomas, the disillusioned and dissipated Carton dives again. The haunting melancholy of Dickens' fictional here who rises to men's high-est glory is a memorable role as interpreted by Bogarde, Dorothy Tutin as the gentle and desimble Lucie Manette is effectively contrasted in world of half-crazed and desperate women made hideous by hunger and hatred. delicate girl with steel-strong integrity is ably aided by the indomitable Miss Pross, splendidly characterised by Athene Seyler.

Cecil Parker as the kindly banker, Jarvis Lorry, does not try to steal the limelight of which he is so deserving for his fine character roles. He is con-tent to support the younger players in this film.

A harsh and unforgettable performance is given by Rosalic Crutchley as Madame Defarge, the implacable enemy of the Evremonde family. Even the liberal and sympathetic Charles Darney, cousin to the monstrous Marquis St Evremonde, is nor immune from her avenging Darney, played by Paul Guers, a French actor, has for the purpose of the plot to look like the liberal and sympathetic Charles and it is satisfying to the viewer to observe the resemblance between these wo handsome young men without too much dependence on make-up.

Two excellent portrayals worthy of mention, are Step-hen Murray's Dr Manette, and Marie Versini's Marie Gabelle. Marie Versini is a 17-yearold Parisienne who won renown very quickly after her studies at the Conservatoire National d'Art Dramatique. It was in-teresting to hear viewers leaving the cinema enquiring "Who is the pretty young gir who went to the Guillotine with Dirk Bogarde?"

TOPICAL in this senson Lis the French film "Typhoon over Nagasaki," Pathe - Cinema production, showing at the Lee and Astor.

This film is more than colourful travelogue with romantic . interest running throughout and has the downto-earth French realistic treatment of a story featuring complicated human relations. The beauties of landscape lake and sea fronts are skilfully shown, also the immaculate and flimsy homes: the delightful (to any male) subservience of the female, constant attention and entertainment for his benefit. One of the best bits in the film was the amusing parody of a Japanese gelsha by Danielle Darrieux, bewigged and kimonoed, with graceful gestures, shy flirtation and gay giggle, as to the manner boin. The entranced victim, Jean Marais could surely only detect one flaw, that the talented performer must be poking fun at him and his contented capitulation to the Japanese way o

South Stumbles On Optimism

By OSWALD JACOBY MITTI 23 high card points and W nine probably winning tricks, South had a reasonable two bid but not an outstanding

North visualised a slam' but started proceeding by merely bidding three spades. When South bid four and five notrump, North was delighted to show his one ace and one king, and when South went, to seven spades, North put down his dummy with great confidence. He certainly was surprised when South struggled away and sholly had to go down one trick. Obviously the Minme for the loss of the small 'slam and rubber must go to South. Where did he go wrong?

South made a mistake that lots of bridge players make. He forgot that his partner had heard his two bid. South merely should have bid four diamonds after his pariner's spade raise. Then if North had signed off at four spades, South should have quit right there. Of course North would have bld four hearts, whereupon South could have tried five clubs. The partnership might still have reached seven. North might have jumped there himsh, but probably North would have taken heed of his rather poor distribution and contented himself with a six bid.

In that case South should have realised that he had shown all his strength and passed at the right contract.

SOUTHGATE—THE OUEEN OF THE BOROUGHS

NCE a year the Borough of Southgate, which I have represented in Parliament for 23 years, holds an official Sabbath Service in a selected local church. The Mace Bearer in gown and cocked hat leads the procession, followed by the newly elected Mayor, then by his predecessor who has stepped down to the level of Deputy Mayor, after which comes the Lord Lieutenant of the County followed by the member of Parliament, and finally we have the Alderman and the Councillors together with the Town Clerk and the Borough Surveyor.

Officially certified for "especially good results." Selfwinding. Shock-protected. Antimagnetic. Bracelet and extra-heavy- waterproof case are styled in solid 18 kt. gold; so are dial, hands and individually mounted hour markers. Stores 36-hour power reserve when fully wound.

A sterling silver presentation box accompanies each Constellation Grand Luxe. Observatory engraving in reinforced back stands for Omega precision mastery, recalls Omega's still unequalled precision records at Geneva, Neuchatel and Kew-Teddington observatories.

In step with the stars

The Omega Constellation is one of man's finest efforts to duplicate, on a miniature scale, the inexorable regularity of the heavenly bodies as they pass across a telescope's field of vision.

The engineering experience that made possible a watch like the Constellation was acquired the hard way: in the accuracy contests of the Geneva and Neuchatel observatories. Here, each year, the finest Swiss watches are pitted against the astronomical clock. Here, over the years, Omega has won an as yet unequalled series of precision victories.

The men who made possible these victories are responsible also for the Constellation. In everyday life, on your wrist, their skill in designing and regulating watches results in a degree of accuracy that enables each Constellation to receive an official Chronometer Certificate.

To this accuracy Omega engineers have added the luxury of self-winding. The Constellation translates each flick of your wrist into steady timekeeping energy. Worn daily, it never needs winding.

Down to its last hour marker—cut, polished and mounted like a precious gem-the Constellation is designed and engineered for the man whose minutes matter, whose seconds count, whose decisions carry weight.

The watch the world has learned to trust . Some day you will own one

DOZEN' SPARKLES IN FITHE richest woman in New York seldom lunches at the Colony or Le Pavillon. The mink coat she wears is six years old and the limousine which drops her off at the Plaza at teatime is a 1955 model. Although her personal fortune could operate the city of Pittsburgh for a whole year, build five Empire State Buildings pay the salaries of future U.S. Presidents until the year 7230, she rarely carries more than $10 in her purse.

She could pay off the staggering tax debt of $1,250,000 that Joe Louis owes the government out of one year's income and still have more than $10,000,000 left over for herself. She gets richer conflures, and to those most likely to know their virtues and their at the rate of $1,460 every hour she lives not off the income from shortcomings-their servants. her vast fortune, but off the income of the income, ELESPITE HER IMMENSE WEALTH, the name of the richest woman in New York is far from a familiar one, even to have neighbours. She is painfully shy of publicity, believing that a lady should have her name mentioned in the newspapers just three times in her life-when she is born, when she marries and when the dies.

She relaxes this rigid rule on publicity only when she allows her name to be mentioned in connection with one of the many charitable or philanthropic causes in which she has long been deeply interested.

She spends little on herself, shunning the Balenciaga gowns she could order by the dozens, the gems she might buy in handfuls and the furs with which she could cram her closuts, preferring instead to live altogether as modestly as the wives of many a $100,000-p-year executive.

WHILE MRS BRUCE ENJOYS the anonymity of great riches. I living a quiet life behind a curtain of wealth, the "poorest" of these 12 top "Doughgirls" is a free-sperder of dollars who lives a lavish existence, travelling about the world in search of happiness and husbands, seldom finding either on more than a temporary basis.

In her 45 years she has had six husbands and has been, in turn, a Princess, a Countess, the wife of a movie idol, a Princess again, the bride of a playboy diplomat and finally a Baroness. Her morriages have cost her more than $7,000,000 of her original $47,000,000 in divorce settlements, but she is hopeful of marrying again as soon as she sheds her present mate.

Hor name, of course, is BARBARA HUTTON.

Ranging between Mrs Bruce at the top and Miss Hutton at the bottom are 10 other very rich women of New York, all of whom will be discussed in this series and each of whom represents a particular attitude toward extreme wealth, from the extreme conservative to the utterly foolish. Few of these women would consent to be interviewed on the subject of their wealth, so in preparing this series we concentrated on talking with the people whose lives touch upon theirs - their familles, their lawyers, their bankers and brokers and the neighbours who rub elbows with them in New York, Newport and Palm

The average newspaper reader has learned to associate names like Glorie Vanderbilt and Brenda Frazler with great wealth, but hey are not remotely in a class with the Diamond Dozen we will present. The degree of their wealth can be imagined from the fact that Earbara Hutton, with a fortune of perhaps $50,000,000, is at the bottom of the list.

MOR THE SAKE of simplifying our task, we have broken the list Her name is MRS MELLON BRUCE and she is worth between I down into four distinct categories: The Self-Made Women, $400,000,000 and $700,000,000, although she is unable accurately to The Parlayers of Wealth, The Fabulous Hostesses and The Erec-

> Only one of our 12 accumulated a fortune on her own. Three of them have substantially increased their inhoritances through shrewd business sense. Five are content to live on a grand scale without particularly bothering to build on their bonanzas, while the remaining three are spendthrift playgirls who are frequently divorced and often in the tabloids.

In addition to Mrs Bruce and Miss Hutton, our list includes:

The stories of a few of these women are grandly impressive, like a righ tapestry hung in a museum. The story of one of the 12 is as inspiring as an infant's first cry and the histories of one or two of the others is as trite as the latest cliche.

TN VIEW of the fact that two-thirds of the wealth in the U.S. is in the hands of women, we intend to discuss the manner in which each of our 12 arrived in the rarlifed atmosphere of the richest women, whether by family inheritance, marriage or personal effort.

TAYNE MANSFIELD teetered into the lounge of her country retreat wearing a king-size sweater which fitted her like a ship's lifebelt, a pair of tartan slacks and golden sandals. She wore no make up and she looked very pretty. She was carrying some photographs.
When she saw me she said: "I've looked you up. You're Sagittarius. You've had a rotten day."

Then she heaped herself beside me on the solice, adjusted her slacks, and added: "I'm Arles. My day went fine." As I made myself comfortable on what was left of the settee she inspected my cufflinks, which she said reminded her of a pair she'd once given to a friend whose name she had now forgotten.

Then she turned her attention to my physical condition. (I was, I may add, some-what the worse for wear after a 20-mile drive through a deluge.)

The failure of the team to win its way through to the vital closing rounds was regarded as something of a major catastrophe by the temperamental Latins and the stormy welcome that awaited the players came close to physical violence.

Such is the importance placed on success in international competition today that failure assumes the dimension of a great national tragedy.
